All the biographies and videos on a single page.

Robbie Robidoux Canada

At the age of seven, in 1960, I was removed from my family through the court, and sent to a Boys' Training School under government control. I became a ward of the Ontario (Canada) government until 21. That began my journey through the Canadian Correctional Enterprise: the Jungle. I eventually landed in the "Big House", the oldest Canadian prison: The Kingston Penitentiary. I'm one of the very few who made it alive and/or got and stayed out!

Motus
Theater
United States

Motus Theater (Colorado, U.S.A.) creates original theater to facilitate dialogue on critical issues of our time. We work with people on the frontlines of violence in America to create autobiographical monologues. We then partner with prominent Americans and law enforcement to stand in the shoes of Motus monologists by reading aloud their stories on stage and in podcast formats to increase awareness, shift attitudes, and inspire action towards a more equitable and just country.

Jonathan
Clayton
South Africa

I'm Presenting the Restorative Justice and Victim Offender Dialogue Process in Correctional Facilities over the last 21 years. Our incarcerated people committed extremely evil and brutal crimes. Many serve a life sentence. Our 70 hour process with a group of 28 offenders at a time is extremely helpful in terms of Responsibility, The truth, remorse, accountability regarding the impact of the crime on victims and the community. Restorative Justice is need for incarcerated people. They meet with their real victims/families.

I founded Transforming Conflict, National Centre for Restorative Approaches in Youth and Community Settings 25 years ago. I am a restorative practitioner, a trainer and consultant, and a published author. I pioneered the concept of a whole-school restorative approach across the UK in the early 2000's. Transforming Conflict now also works with staff in children's residential care, youth organisations and community care. I have been on the EFRJ Values and Principles Working Party and is currently on their Training Committee.
